DIVIDENDS - WHEN AND HOW TO PAY

COURSE INTRODUCTION

The payment of dividends is one of the way in which a company “share the wealth” generated from running the business. Companies may distribute the profits it makes from the capital that the shareholders have invested. They are usually a cash payment to the investors of a company but may take other forms of settlement. Dividends are commonly paid on an annual basis but at times the company may decide to distribute its profit more than once.

The payment of a dividend to shareholders will however leave the company with fewer assets with which to meet its liabilities to its creditors. For that reason, the Companies Act 2016 imposes provision on the directors to ensure that the company is solvent before making such distribution. Even if the solvency is met, there are other legal considerations which the company has to adhere to.
